Types of Computer Fraud

- Phishing Scams: Fraudsters impersonate legitimate entities through email, text, or websites to trick individuals into sharing personal or financial information. Common targets: bank account details, credit card numbers, and login credentials.
- Identity Theft: Using stolen personal information to commit fraud, such as applying for credit, filing fraudulent tax returns, or accessing private accounts. Frequently executed through data breaches or spyware.
- Ransomware Attacks: Hackers encrypt a victim's data and demand payment in exchange for the decryption key. Targets include individuals, businesses, and even government agencies.
- Credit Card Fraud: Unauthorized use of credit card information obtained via skimming devices, phishing, or breaches of e-commerce platforms.
- Online Auction and Retail Scams: Fraudsters create fake online stores or auction listings to collect payments for goods that are never delivered.
- Wire Transfer Fraud: Fraudulent schemes convincing victims to transfer money to accounts controlled by attackers, often involving fake invoices or impersonation.
- Social Engineering Attacks: Manipulating individuals into divulging confidential information, often exploiting trust or fear.
- Investment Fraud: Fraudulent schemes, such as Ponzi schemes, promoted via social media, emails, or fake websites targeting potential investors.

HUMANS ARE THE WEAK LINKS!

- YOU can purchase every piece of security in the world, it can all be running and protecting you.
- YOU, can click, reply to a text or answer a phone call and bypass it all!

PHONE SCAMS

- The phone number on your caller ID may be the real phone number from the bank, it's a trick - spoofing
- May tell you to "reactivate" your card
- May tell you that they are with the fraud department of the bank, don't call the bank yourself as they are in on the scam (imposter scams by the thousands- police officers, IRS etc.)
- They want to help you, so log into account on the link they provide
- May scare you by saying the account will be locked and need to act fast
- Ignore instructions to press a number
- FOCUSING ON LAND LINES IN AFFLUENT AREAS!

TEXT MESSAGE SCAMS

- Never transfer funds
- Never provide passcode or PIN
- Call the bank / vendor number from number on back of a card or on their web site.
- Login to your account on the web (through your browser), process an order, check your account status, chat with the vendor to prove the account is not having a problem.
- Block the user or swipe and delete the text, don’t open it or respond.
- Don’t bother responding YES or NO, verify separately if it looks somewhat legit.
